Part II. Detailed Course InformationJustification for the proposal Maximum 80 words

This course serves as a guided practical course by providing and understanding of the process and techniques used to make insurance operations.

Course Description

Provide a brief overview of what is covered during the semester. This information will appear in the printed catalogs and on the web online catalog. Maximum 60 words.

The course offers a close look at a number of "insurance operations" of interest to today's business and finance graduate. It opens with an insightful examination of the major functions of an insurance company. Understanding how the carrier approaches underwriting, for example, enables the student to appreciate how a business should be managed in order to present the most favourable impression on an insurance underwriter thus earning the lowest rates. Similarly insight regarding insurance regulations, risk control, and a general overview of the insurance industry provides keen understanding as to how business interface with this very important sector of the finance community.

Course Objectives

Explain the aims of the course. Maximum 100 words.

The course goes on to provide working knowledge regarding self-insurance, captives and high-deductible rating plans. The student becomes familiar with risk theory and probability models used in business as well as practical application of methods used to establish the financial efficiency of risk management initiatives. For the student aspiring to positions of CEO, Investment Analyst, Lender, Regulator or Risk Manager this course offers a valuable capsulation of advance modern risk practices.

Learning Outcomes

Explain the learning outcomes of the course. Maximum 10 items.

The course is intended to provide a good overview of the industry, particularly of commercial coverages, to be especially beneficial to those students who may either work in the property-liability insurance industry, or be involved in purchasing or evaluating risks and insurance policies for other organizations.
